Forestry-related businesses are required to manage complex and evolving environmental, technological and economic circumstances. Today’s professionals must have the ability to quickly understand and assimilate these factors within their financial and operational decision-making to best manage and leverage forest assets.

The Auburn University Forest Finance and Investment graduate certificate program is designed for those who wish to learn more about forestry operations or investments to become more competitive in the job market or operate their businesses more successfully.

Earning a graduate certificate is convenient, often takes less time, and is more affordable than traditional graduate programs. And, depending on their goals, students may later apply their course credit to a graduate degree.

The Forest Finance and Investment graduate certificate requires only fifteen (15) credit hours of online coursework. To participate in the certificate program, students must apply to Auburn University, however Graduate Record Examination (GRE) scores are not required. Entrance to the certificate program and AU Graduate School requires a 2.75 GPA. However, exceptions can be made if sufficient justification for the exception is provided to the SFWS Graduate Program Office.

Enrollment will begin fall 2018.
